World Children's Day (20th November)

In honour of this, on Monday we are running our most highly requested activities during our aftercare service, to promote the rights of leisure and agency. We will also have a treat at afternoon tea! We will also be running surveys with the children to identify some issues that they are passionate about and that we can implement into our program planning of how we can get the children involved and in on the action!

2023 Theme: For every child, every right

World Children's Day was first established in 1954 as Universal Children's Day and is celebrated on 20 November each year to promote international togetherness, awareness among children worldwide, and improving children's welfare.

November 20th is an important date as it is the date in 1959 when the UN General Assembly adopted the Declaration of the Rights of the Child. It is also the date in 1989 when the UN General Assembly adopted the Convention on the Rights of the Child.

Since 1990, World Children's Day also marks the anniversary of the date that the UN General Assembly adopted both the Declaration and the Convention on children's rights.

Mothers and fathers, teachers, nurses and doctors, government leaders and civil society activists, religious and community elders, corporate moguls and media professionals, as well as young people and children themselves, can play an important part in making World Children's Day relevant for their societies, communities and nations.

World Children's Day offers each of us an inspirational entry-point to advocate, promote and celebrate children's rights, translating into dialogues and actions that will build a better world for children.

#ForEveryChild, Every Right!

For every child, peace

Every child, everywhere, has a right to live in a peaceful world.

For every child, a livable planet

Children have a right to a safe and livable planet.

For every child, a voice

Children must be listened to and included in all decisions that affect them.

What will you do?

World Children's Day is UNICEF's annual day of action for children, by children.

From climate change, education and mental health, to ending racism and discrimination, children and young people are raising their voices on the issues that matter to their generation and calling for adults to create a better future.

This World Children's Day, it's more important than ever that the world listens to their ideas and demands.

On 20 November, kids are speaking out and reimagining a better future. What will you do?

Explore what's happening this World Children's Day and see how you can take part.
